Hon that have accumulated and must hold what they have. Cannon and Fairbanks represent Illinois and Indiana, rather as favorite sons than as typifying candidates. The real sentiment which the ailles stand for is found further from home.

Kind-Hearted Conservative,

Bo here in the Republican convention the conflicting forces of the present day American problem will find expression, and expression is one step toward solution. And it is likely that the expression the platform will take will embody impersonally the temperament of the candidate. Taft is essentially a kind hearted conservative. The one of the candidate. Taft is essentially a kind hearted conservative. The one sure thing about the platform is that it will not embody the elements of radicalism. It is bound to state in terms, more or less definite, the case of those who honestly carn and would hold against those who desire and would take. Probably not at this convention, but at some convention within the next ten years, the Republican party will take a strong, clearly defined position, against socialism and for individualism. Taft is essentially an individualism, and not at all of the socialistic temperament; and the two wings of the party to-day, the Taft forces and the allies, differ only in the degree which each is willing to go in stating squarely in the differ only in the degree which each is willing to go in stating squarely in the platform the belief in individual right honestly to earn and to hold what he earns restricted and controlled by com-mon honestly, rather than considera-tions looking to the "mmercial wel-fare. That is the philosophy of this gathering."

sees this vast idle vacuous crowd omen in their Sunday clothes-generall two-piece suits, such as are advertised in the backs of magazines. The hotel in the backs of magazines. The hotel lobbles are filled with prominent citizens of brick-paved towns, who drift around as aimlessly and as much like lost sheep as the delegates from Grant township do when they arrive the night before the county convention in Emporia. If you would know how the president of the Interborough Trolley System is faring in Chicago, go to the remaining hotel in your country town the night before the county convention. But Men Are Small.

System is faring in Chicago, go to the principal hotel in your country town the night before the county convention. Big Men Are Small.

Observe that clean shaved farmer drifting around the lobby of the hotel, looking eagerly for some one from Willowlale; very well, he owns the biggest farm and the largest Hereford hered in Grant township, but no one seems to care for him at the county seat. So here the interborough president is a mighty small potato in a big pile. And yet some way, by the curious human chemistry that forms great events, that farmer in the country town, or that street-carman, or merchant, or banker at the big convention, works out the great problems of human growth; and though he is sweaty and lonesome and ignorant of all that he thinks is going on about him, this man makes the destiny of the republic. For in his heart is the average honesty of the nation, and to keep within that circumscribed area of average honesty and still work out their factional designs, the fixers and manipulators in the rooms upstairs are laying their schemes and drafting their plans. But the lonesome little man with tired, aching feet, with a Pullman shine on his hot shoes, is after all the arbiter of the two camps

Committee on Finance. Removal for any cause, death or absolute inability to serve, of Senator Allison would result, in the event of Dolliver's nomination and election as Vice-President, in the election by Iowa of a Senator of Goernor Cummins's choosing. That would remove from the Senate two standpatters, replaced by two tariff referrings. That the description is the senate two standpatters, replaced by two tariff re-formers. That kind of argument will be used undoubtedly against taking Dolliver out of the Senate. Cortelyou is a standpatter, and, although a late comer into Republican prominence, he has demonstrated an entire readiness to adapt himself to all the powerful financial interests, protected and privi-lated by legislation and executive to the favor which have within the past two decades or so lent their powerful aid exclusively to the Republican party.

To use a Democratic street expression, "Cortelyou will stand pat, stand hitched, stay bought, and keep munn."

It is suggested that the "interests" have not forgotten how eleverly in 1964 Cortelyou gathered in moneys from the corporations, nor with what admirable fortitude and reticence he fronted the "alings and arrows" of his chiefs and his party's enemies. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, Cortelyou's nomination appears an imminent probability.

and notwithstanding, Cortelyou's nomination appears an imminent probability. That being admitted, the Democrats will look to New York for somebody to pit against Cortelyou, and so it is that there seems to be a general disposition to settle upon Francis Burton Harrison as the ideal and logical man to be nominated for Vice-President by the Democrats.

Thus it tooks as though the opposing lekets of the two great parties will be Taft and Cortelyou, and Bryan and Jesselson.

GREAT BIG, DEEP HOLE

But Vessel Apparently Not Damaged Beyond Bulkhend.
NORFOLK, VA., June 13.—Upon arrival at the navy yard to-day, the monitor Florida was immediately run in the big stone dry dock and the water pumped out, in order that a close examination of the damage done by the torpede could be definitely ascertained.
This examination showed that a clean hole extending from the superstructure, ten feet down the hull, had been made, and that it was twenty feet in length. The destructive power of the torpede was the marvel of the examining officer. The injury internally extended in about eight feet at the centre, but varied from four to six feet on the margins. The most important disclosure, however, was the fact that the damage did not extend beyond the water-tight bulkhead sufficiently to cause any damage. It was the opinion of the experts that without the bulkhead the monitor would have gone down in a few minutes, and that with it she could have easily been kept afloat indefinitely, with the occasional use of the pumps. Whether or not her modern machinery below decks was injured by the explosion has not as yet been determined, but probably will be ured by the explosion has not as yet been determined, but probably will be seen determined, but probably and Monday.

After an official photograph of the injury had been taken for the Navy Department, a large canvas cover was lowered over the side to cover the opening, and all visitors barred out.
